An American contemporary has been urging upon the Pacific Mail Steamship Company the importance of securing the whole trade of the Pacific. To this end it points out the advisability of establishing, without loss of time, a branch line to Australia and Now Instead of taking a direct course across the Pacific, it suggests that the company's steamers should go south to Honolulu, the capital of Hawaii, to meet a steamer which should proceed first to Levuka, in Fiji, and then on to New Zealand and Australia, This would give the Company a midway ship Peculese from Manila (71 days). coaling station and somewhat cheaper coal, would break the monotony of the The sanguine Californian writer proceeds to draw a glowing picture of the pros cets this proposed line offers to the instructed the Captain to advertise her for sale. I have seen many other cases where foreigners are allowed to obstruct the footpath and flearly the whole of the road and no notice is taken of them. Dues the foreigner pay more to keep up the Revenue of the colony than us Chinese? If you like to take a walk along Lyndhurs terrace any fine day, you may see unpacking and repacking opium going on with no doubt as much annoyance to passers by, or perhaps more, than the curpenters' timber. I don't know but I would almost as soon have a plank poked into my eye as have it filled with opium packing, and I would certainly prefer the smell of the former, not being an opinm smoker.
